Council Discuss Gas Service

Coleman town council met Tuesday evening when the matter of being served with natural gas was the main item on the agenda. Council have been discussing and investigating whether the town should take over the utility and operate the gas service as a town owned utility or whether Canada Western Natural Gas Company should be given the franchise to service the town. Since council could come to no decision on this matter a plebiscite is to be held in town in the immediate future to get the decision of the citizens as to what service the town should adopt.

A delegation from the Coleman Lions Club was present at the meeting requesting permission from the town to erect more playground equipment in the town park. The Lions have several additional swings and slides to erect in the park for the young people. The Lions also requested permission from the Council to erect a Boy Scouts hall on a piece of town owned land. Council suggested several sites of land in town where the hall could be erected. The Lions committee will look over these sites and bring the matter up to the club.

The town have agreed to take over the opening and closing of graves in the town of Coleman cemeteries. A fee of $40.00 per grave is to be charged by the town for this service. This action was requested of council by J. Hall of Halls Funeral Services Limited of Blairmore who felt that such service should be undertaken by the town in town owned cemeteries.

Council recommended the purchase of fly spraying equipment and a supply of chemicals to combat the breeding of flies in back alleys and other sections of town. The matter of fly control being successfully carried out was reported at a recent meeting of the Chinook Health unit. Council are also contemplating a possible campaign to rid the town of or to curb the growth of dandelions.

It was reported that the sewage program and the new housing development site was making very favorable progress and that lots in the new sites would be put up for sale within the next two weeks. Applications for lots can be made at the town office.

It was also reported that the winter works project in the town park was practically completed as the cribbing along the side of the creek running through the park has been repaired and some improvement work has been done in the parks grounds.

New Coal-Cutting Machine Demonstrated

After the demonstration Lord Robens described the new machine as fantastic. Manned by 20 men it is capable of producing 1,000 tons of coal a day — the normal output of 300 miners. The Collins Miner, which has cost £100,000 sterling to develop, has been designed to extract coal from thin seams where narrow confined spaces make conditions exhausting for men.

Pole Treating Plant Being Built Here

Another thriving industry will soon swing into operation east of Coleman when the Natal Forest Products Limited begin producing treated fence and building poles. The company is owned by Frank Knight and son George of Natal, B. C., Jim Matejka of Natal and formerly of Viking and Edmonton, Bruce Hammond formerly of Lethbridge and Leo Tetreault of Natal, B. C.

Outlay on the present plant being built is estimated to be over $50,000.00 with some $50,000.00 in stock, and plans call for expansion of the plant as the new business grows. Mr. Tetreault is in charge of setting up the plant. The poles are presently being cut in the Elk Valley and hauled to the processing site. Some 25 men are engaged in the entire operation including the bush camps and at least ten men will be employed at the plant when it is in full operation.

The company will produce six to 12 foot fence posts as well as barn poles, telephone poles and all building poles as well as treated lumber for irrigation ditches and culverts. The poles are treated with pentachlorophenol to preserve the wood and all treating will be done in accordance with the American Wood Preserves Association specifications. A six foot deep by fifty foot long steel cylinder made by Steel Craft of Calgary was brought in last week and is being set up as part of the plant. When the plant is in operation bundles of poles are loaded onto six carts and run on rails into the large cylinder which has a hinged door at one end. When the carts are inside the cylinder the pressurizing fluid is forced into the wood by steam and high air pressure. Then properly treated the poles are removed and stacked ready for shipment to market all over Alberta and British Columbia. The method of treating the poles is known as a pentachlorophenol system. Mr. Tetreault has expressed thanks to all the local contractors who have co-operated to the full extent to assist the new industry set up.

FASHION SHOW IS SUCCESSFUL

The fashion tea on Saturday, April 14 at the Turtle Mountain Hotel was an example of what a few progressive business people can accomplish through a co-operative effort. Some one hundred and fifty ladies spent the afternoon learning about the new fashion trends in dresses, fabrics, cosmetics and hair styling.

The banquet room was glamorized by the addition of ferns, flowers and plants and the tea was enhanced by delicious and beautiful pastries. All of this was supplied by the sponsoring firms.

Report of Recent Freedom Seminar

W. J. McNally was the featured speaker at the Freedom Seminar held in the Turtle Mountain Hotel in Frank during the past week. Mr. McNally, manager of a policy department of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, spoke on several phases of the freedom Canadians enjoy in business and how this freedom is being jeopardized by being exposed to communistic activities and what can be done to prevent this.

The meeting was chaired by John Kerr of Frank and also heard J. C. Donald, western representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and Reg Clark, Alberta manager of the Chambers of Commerce speak on "Freedom".

Many pamphlets and interesting literature was made available to those attending the Seminar.

Representation was present at the Seminar from Fernie east to Lethbridge.

The Alberta Junior Forest Wardens organization, sponsored by the Alberta Department of Land and Forests, became a part of the national association with the presentation of a provincial charter at a ceremony in Edmonton recently.

Junior Forest Wardens have been organized in the province for several years and the movement now has more than 200 members in nine clubs. In addition to creating an awareness of conservation and principles of good citizenship in forest resources protection, the organization serves to promote the Canadian youth through its program combining specialized training in conservation with healthy outdoor recreation and interest in community service.

Alberta clubs may be formed in any area where there are no less than six interested youths, an adult supervisor and an adult council of three persons.

Members are eligible to attend a two-week summer camp period at Hinton Forestry Training School.

 (By Ambrose Hills)
Manitoba Publishers

When I was a young lad, Winnipeg was known as a great publishing centre. One of my first writings was published in a Winnipeg-based magazine called The National Home Monthly. My next sale was to the magazine section of The Free Press, edited in those days by Frank H. Williams. Those small sales did a great deal to keep me whacking away at a typewriter.

The National Home Monthly finally folded. Mr. Williams, who later published a small group of trade papers, eventually found that magazines based in Manitoba could not survive easily in the face of competition from magazines and newspapers published elsewhere, where the rules were different. He abandoned his hopeful group of magazines and went back to writing.

I have been noticing lately, that Manitoba weekly papers are pretty slim on advertising content, and I wonder how many editors are having a difficult time to keep going. I am sure they are not earning anything like what they should considering the important services they render. They, too, lose a great deal of advertising revenue to publications which come into this area but operate under a different set of rules.

The problem applies, also, to our broadcasting stations. The laws governing this form of electronic publishing grow steadily more onerous. The stations must carry a considerable portion of Canadian content; they must do thousands of dollars' worth of free public service broadcasting monthly to justify their franchises to the authorities. Yet a powerful TV station, built on the American side of the border, in a small village, is able to send in its signal, carrying liquor advertising, etc.; without having to meet any of the obligations which face its Canadian competitors.

It seems to me that the authorities which make the rules for publishers must either remove some of the burdens imposed on them, or make the ground rules under which they operate, as liberal as those of their outside competitors. It does not make sense to shackle our own people in a variety of ways while inviting outsiders to come in and help themselves. It doesn't make sense for the Canada Council to spend money on poetry readings in Ottawa, if our weekly newspapers on the prairies are going to fade away through lack of sustenance.

PASTEURIZATION

Milk is a great factor in health. It is essential in human diet and furnishes all the essential elements for the sustaining of life and growth.

Milk is a food we cannot do without, and yet, according to the Health League of Canada, milk produced under improper conditions and handled carelessly, has been responsible for more deaths than war itself. Milk is in a large measure responsible for the prevalence of diarrhoeal diseases in infants. Raw milk carries bovine tuberculosis and bacillus abortus infection from cows to humans, and milk has been responsible for many epidemics of typhoid fever, scarlet fever, septic sore throat and diphtheria.

The proper inspection of cows and premises and the ensuring of proper methods of handling milk are essential, and the elimination of infected cows has done much to ensure a safe supply of milk. But, pasteurization of milk will absolutely eliminate the danger insofar as drinking milk is concerned, and the danger cannot be entirely eliminated in any other way. Pasteurization, not of some milk, but of all milk, is essential.

Failure to educate the public properly is probably the main reason that only two provinces in Canada have compulsory pasteurization laws. How much more time will elapse before the other provinces follow Ontario and Saskatchewan's example?

Tom Crowder joined Calgary Power 25 years ago. He is now Operations Supervisor at the Seebe Control Centre. He's a busy man in his community — Secretary-Treasurer of the School Board, Treasurer of the Community Club, and active on the Curling Club executive. When he finds time to relax, Tom turns to golf and 35 mm. photography. Tom and his wife Marion live in Seebe. They have three children — two daughters and one son, attending University.

Tom hatched a hardy brood!

Surrounded by dials and recording charts at Calgary Power's Seebe Control Centre, Tom Crowder may seem remote from the egg hatchery. But just look at the brood of hardy 'day olds' he has helped to incubate and hatch! Thanks to his control over Calgary Power's generating facilities, Tom ensures that there is constant, dependable electrical power for incubators. When the chicks arrive at the farm, Tom continues to "mother hen" them, by supplying the power necessary for the brooders — 24 hours a day — to help raise them into top-notch layers. Power for every type of job, from driving industrial machines to hatching chicks, is controlled by Tom from one of Canada's most modern and efficient Control Centres. Why not call in to see Tom at Seebe? He's one of the Calgary Power team of people who take time to be friendly.

U. S. vice overlords have stranglehold
on Canadian crime

Powerful United States gangsters, experts in race track gambling and drug smuggling are taking over Canadian crime.

"They have financed past ventures with money taken from Canada's wealthiest banks," said a U. S. treasury advisor in an article appearing in the December issue of a national magazine.

Press and officials are awake to the menace. In August, 17 top Canadian and U. S. law enforcement officers met in Toronto, recommending strict legislation which would deter international crime on this continent.

During the 1952 vice probes in the U. S., the New York underworld leaders decided to make Montreal their headquarters, but the organization itself had an international flavor.

The syndicate was headed by Montrealer Giuseppe Cotroni.

From New York came Frank Petrucci, an expert in gang organization. Marseilles, in France, supplied Gabriel Graziani, gangster of many languages and talents with powerful friends in Europe, the Americas and the Middle East. But the instructions came mainly from the U. S.

In January, 1958, they began a series of robberies ending with the largest haul ever taken in the world — $3,500,000 from Brockville Ontario Savings and Trust. The total amount stolen was over $10,000,000. Negotiables were cashed all over the world, thanks to the jet age and Graziani's connections.

But Cotroni's organization made a fatal mistake. The Brockville job was too big. Internal look at an interest in the case and through a series of breaks, rounded up the ring, including Cotroni for trafficking in narcotics and possession of Brockville bonds.

As one police official phrased it "Our gangsters used to be just a lot of bums, — now they are expert operators."

Something for nothing

The annual flood of catalogues from discount houses is on the way in again, and we suppose most people get as many of them as we do, and probably treat them pretty much the same way.

Only thing is, our waste basket is bigger.

For the uneducated, we suggest you look up the item that's caught your fancy, then make a tour of local stores, and see if you can't pick up the same thing at retail, often for less money than the suggested wholesale price. Not to say anything about the difference in service.

Glancing through one recent catalogue, offended our common sense — At least two electrical gadgets were shown as commanding a hundred per cent mark-up, when we know the electrical business doesn't generally command this amount, while a pair of collapsible opera glasses suggested as worth $12.95 could be bought for $1.50. What bunk! —Exchange.

"I Wonder"
Questions

Where Does Dust
Come From?

Dust is made of very different things and it varies from place to place. In cities and towns especially where there are many factories with smokestacks, dust contains many particles of carbon and other solids that come from smoke. These often make city air unhealthful.

A great deal of dust consists of fine particles of soil and sand picked up by the wind. Some dust is made of organic matter — substances coming from living things, such as the pollen of plants.

Strangely enough, some of the dust in the air comes from outer space, from the destruction of meteors in our atmosphere. As these tiny bodies burn up in the air, a fine ash is formed, which sifts down to settle at last upon the earth.

Much of the dust remains in the air. Some of it washed down by rains and finds its way to earth or into the sea, either directly or through sewer systems. Some dust may escape from the earth into outer space, but it is likely that most of it is held by atmosphere.

Don't go short on shortbread

Anyone with a sweet tooth knows that Scotland is as famous for its shortbread as it is for tweeds, whisky and cashmires.

Canadians are probably more familiar with the traditional and basic shortbread recipe that simply calls for lots of butter, sugar and flour, but there are actually many different varieties of shortbread.

Fine, thin cakes, made with or without caraway seeds, are known as petitot tails—probably a corruption of the French "petits gateaux", meaning small cakes. Ayrshire shortbread has an egg yolk and cream added, and queen's tea cakes are made with egg, grated lemon rind and rosewater.

In this recipe for rolled oat shortbread, rolled oats are added to the typical shortbread dough giving the cookies a very special flavor, texture and color.

An important point to remember when making shortbread is that success or failure depends on the kneading, which should be done with a light hand.

If a shower or tea is coming up, the shortbreads can be decorated with bits of candied cherries, peel or nutmeats. Although these delectable cookies are likely to vanish the same day they are baked, they do keep well if given a chance.

Rolls Oat Shortbread

Yield—4 dozen shortbreads
1 1/2 cups once-sifted all-purpose flour or
2 1/2 cups once-sifted pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup soft butter or margarine
1/4 cup lightly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups rolled oats

Preheat oven to 300 deg. F.—slow. Sift together the all-purpose or pastry flour and baking powder. Cream butter or margarine well. Gradually blend in brown sugar and granulated sugar, vanilla and rolled oats.

Work in sifted dry ingredients. Turn out onto floured board or canvas; knead dough lightly and pat or roll out to a rectangle 9x12 inches. Cut dough into 1 1/2 inch squares. Place on cookie sheet. Decorate, if desired, with bits of candied cherries, peel or nutmeats. Bake in pre-heated oven until set and golden — 20 to 25 minutes.

The legal representative of an estate holding a cultivation lease in this area of the Province should communicate with the Director of Lands and Forests regarding the possibility of conversion of the cultivation lease to a homestead sale or an agricultural and tree farm sale.

GENERAL INFORMATION

The holder of a grazing lease comprising or including former school lands which now have become public lands will not be given priority to apply for the conversion of the grazing lease to a homestead lease, homestead sale or agricultural and tree farm sale.

The change in classification of school land to public land will not affect the administration of former school land presently held under permit, lease or sale.

Further information may be obtained upon communicating with the Director of Lands, Department of Lands and Forests, Natural Resources Building, EDMONTON, Alberta.

DECREASE IN DONORS CUTS BLOOD SUPPLY

A decrease in the number of blood donors attending Red Cross clinics in northern Alberta last year resulted in incidents during several months of the year when demands for blood from hospitals in the area exceeded the available supply.

A joint report on the Blood Transfusion Service by the two Alberta Medical Directors, Dr. D. J. Buchanan of Edmonton and Dr. Eric Naton of Calgary, shows total blood collections for the year amounted to 64,411 pints, representing 32,733 pints from northern Alberta and 31,678 from southern areas of the province.

Through the service sufficient blood for an average of two transfusions was provided with out cost to more than 18,700 patients in Alberta hospitals during the year.

In addition some 41,500 Rh-antenatal and other blood group tests were conducted in the two Red Cross laboratories as part of the blood program.

Of 32,733 donors who gave blood at northern Alberta clinics 18,513 attended Edmonton clinics with 14,220 donating at clinics in northern centres. A total of 32,923 pints of blood were issued to hospitals in northern Alberta and adjoining areas during the year, the report showed.

While the Calgary Blood Depot was successful in meeting all demands for blood from doctors and hospitals in southern Alberta, Dr. Naton noted that staff members were called upon increasingly frequent to collect blood by special techniques, or at special times, resulting in a heavier work load and increased service.

In 1961, 14,305 donors attended permanent Calgary clinics with 17,373 donors giving blood at Red Cross clinics in southern rural centres. Serum donations continued at a high level during the year with 178 such donations and 35 anti-Rhesus donations sent east for processing.

Alberta Shares
 Record Cancer
 Research Grants

A total of $54,820.00 has been awarded seven cancer research doctors and scientists in the Province of Alberta by the National Cancer Institute of Canada, it was announced in Edmonton recently by the Rt. Rev. J. A. MacLellan, D.P., President of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Cancer Society. This is part of the record amount of $1,535,073.00 to be distributed to 108 people throughout the country, involving 20 universities and research centres, and is the largest amount awarded this province since the Institute was founded in 1948.

Dr. Carlton Auger of Laval University, president of the Institute, pointed out that the substantial grants have been made possible only because of the annual success of the April campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society, which provides the bulk of money used by the Institute for research.

"Research," he said, "is our hope chest which we expect will some day help us find the solution to cancer. And the more money and intelligent effort we can put into the chest now, the sooner that day may come."

All but one of the grants were awarded to University of Alberta personnel, the exception going to Dr. Colin Le Queune Darcel, of the Animal Diseases Research Institute in Lethbridge, who was granted $4,500.00 to study a leukemia-like disease in chickens, in collaboration with Dr. Roy Bather of the University of Saskatchewan Cancer Research Unit.

Other grantees were: Dr. John Sparby Colter, $18,000.00; Dr. Cecil Melville Couves, $15,400.00; Dr. K. Kowalewski, $5,000.00; Dr. R. A. L. Macbeth, $5,920.00; Dr. W. A. MacLellan, $2,000.00; and Dr. H. E. Rawlinson, $3,000.00.

Well-Planned Two-Storey Features Large Living Room

Architect P. M. Beauvais, of Montreal, has combined a pleasing exterior with an attractive and well laid out interior plan in this three-bedroom, two-storey house.

A highlight of the interior plan is a large living room running the complete length of the house. The popular corner window arrangement enhances the exterior appearance as well as providing a well-lighted cheerful living room. Another feature of the house is the open planning between the kitchen and the dining room which should prove popular with housewives. In addition there is a convenient U-shaped working area and easy access to the side service entrance.

The architect has kept hall space to a minimum and provided for a handy washroom on the ground floor in addition to the upstairs bathroom. The large master bedroom is another appealing point.

The total floor area is 1,280 square feet and the exterior dimensions are 30 feet by 21 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as design 524, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

J. P. Griffin
New Democratic Party Candidate

J. P. Griffin of Fort Macleod was elected as the New Democratic Party candidate for the Macleod Federal Constituency at the Nominating Convention held on Tuesday, April 17th at 8 p.m. in the Miner's Hall in Blairmore. The meeting was chaired by Rev. K. Teasdale.

Mr. Griffin is a long-time resident of Fort Macleod, well-known as a community-minded citizen. He came to Fort Macleod from England in 1908, and except for a period of overseas service in the army in 1918, he has always worked and resided in Fort Macleod or in its vicinity. He is recognized for his faithful service to his church and to the youth of the community.

Mr. Griffin is a veteran in C.C.F. politics, having taken an active part in its affairs since its inception. He has contributed to the development of the Party's thinking by writing regularly in the party paper and through radio broadcasting. He was the Party Organizer for Southern Alberta for four years during the early forties, and he has also run as candidate several times for both Federal and Provincial elections. He is, at present, the full time manager for the Fort Macleod Credit Union, which he helped organized in 1941.

Upon his election, Mr. Griffin gave a brief address of thanks and stated his conviction that the time is rapidly approaching when there will be a general awakening among the people of Canada, and that the New Democratic Party may get greater support than is expected.

The guest speakers were Mr. George McFall, candidate for Medicine Hat Federal Constituency and vice-president of the Provincial New Democratic Party; Mr. Grant Notley, Secretary and Organizer for the Prov. N.D.P., and Rev. W. E. Mullen of Calgary, member of the National Council of the N.D.P.

Mr. McFall, who is a farmer, emphasized the common cause of all workers, whether in industry, or on the farm, or in business. The gravest danger confronting all Canadians, he said, was the depletion of Canadian resources and capital through undue profits going to foreign investors. He cited the insurance companies as one example and said that something similar to what took place in Cuba could happen here.

Mr. Notley spoke on organization. He said that we have the best leader in Canada in Mr. Douglas, a program second to none, and that all we need now is a hard working organization. He introduced the Canvasser's Kit and urged the members to go out and get more members.

Rev. Mullen stated that the controls advocated by the party were not meant to create regimentation. Controls will be used only to forestall such problems as unemployment which, in fact, is regimentation of the worst kind. Unemployment robs man of his innate dignity which he gains only through useful work. The N.D.P., he said, should not be considered as an end in itself, but rather as a means through which the dignity of man can be enhanced.

Also, Mr. Ken Cunningham, a representative of the N.D.P. Youth — "Andy", for short — spoke briefly on the need for youth to participate to maintain the vigor and growth of the Party.

Patterson Favors
Livingstone Gap Dam

Ernie Patterson, Federal Social Credit Candidate for Macleod riding, announced the first platform of his platform for the coming federal election. Mr. Patterson states that he is in favor of the construction of the Livingstone Gap Dam on the Oldman River and that immediate steps should be taken for the construction of the dam. He feels that such a dam would guarantee sufficient water for irrigation and also water for industrial and domestic uses in Fort Macleod and the City of Lethbridge.

At the present time, during dry years, the Oldman River runs dangerously low. With construction of this dam, heavy industry which might wish to locate in the area depending on the Oldman River for water would have sufficient supply. Water stored, from spring run off could be controlled to give the river a balanced flow. It has been estimated that up to three hundred feet of water per second could be supplied from the reservoir which would be created by the construction of the Livingstone Gap Dam. At the present time, the City of Lethbridge, the Town of Fort Macleod and the Lethbridge Northern Irrigation District are dependent on the river for water.

Mr. Patterson was nominated to carry the Social Credit banners in the Macleod riding in June of 1951. He has taught school in Claresholm, which is his home town, for the past five years.
